Wilson and the Old Soldiers

The following is taken from the Camden, N. J., Daily Courier, of October 5, 1911, and is published herewith in full and without comment:

An incident that did not find its way into public print at the time Governor Wilson visited the Old Soldiers' home at Vineland a few weeks ago, has now been revealed, indicates the narrow-minded partisanship of the man who bears the title of executive of the great state of New Jersey. As alleged and related by prominent citizens of Vineland, the old veterans, learning of the intended visit, prepared to do honor to the guest by equipping themselves in their best attire, as did also their wives. At the approach of the visitor they lined up in true military order, but upon alighting from the automobile that carried the party there Mr. Wilson ignored their presence and passed by without a word of recognition. Of course, the radiant expression of the old boys immediately turned to gloom at being thus snubbed by the chivalrous gentleman, Governor Wilson, but unmindful of this act the governor entered the portals of the home, and was shown the comforts a republican legislature had bestowed upon these men who defended their country against the treason of Jefferson Davis and his associates.

At noon dinner was served, and the governor took his in a private room, which may have been all right. When the old veterans, who took their dinner in the main dining room hall had finished, they made a respectful request, through Captain Shields, the commandant, that the governor give them a little talk. After communicating the request of the "boys in blue" to Mr. Wilson, the governor stated "he had nothing to say to them." This was snub number two. However, a little later on the boys who had gathered together and were discussing the conduct of this exemplary man, the governor approached the room in which they were seated, and placing his hand on the door frame, looked in and turned on his heel in an opposite direction, leaving the building and wending his way to the "hog pen," where some fine specimens of the "living hog" were shown his "Honor," after which he left the grounds.

Now, will any reader of the country term such conduct other than premeditated snub? Will any citizen admit these to be the acts of a polished gentleman, as many are prone to dub Mr. Wilson? Is it possible that in this, the 20th century, an executive of this or any other state in the union, would manifest his partisanship in any such manner? Why, the "fireeaters and snuff takers" of the southland would not be guilty of such ungentlemanly actions, yet Governor Woodrow Wilson, an F. F. V., descends the scale and offends by his so doing the men and their wives who suffered and were tortured by the civil war in order that the nation might exist, while Mr. Wilson in his short pants was perhaps attended by a colored mammy down in "Ole Virginny."

Of course, the old veterans were hurt, and well they might be, for whatever of malice was in the governor's mind at the sight of the blue and the men who wore it should have been discarded and the executive shown a broader mind by saying a few words to brighten the few remaining years allotted them. The following day one of the boys approached the commandant and inquired if the inmates of the home were paupers, as intimated by Mr. Wilson's actions toward them, stating if they were so regarded the old boys would disperse to their homes and ply the vocation of a recognized pauper.

One thing is assured. No votes can be expected by the governor in his future aspirations from these men, many of whom are democrats, and every man wears a Grand Army badge or whose name appears on the muster rolls of the nation should scorn such actions. Men who wore the blue and men who wore the gray, can you indorse these petty acts of Governor Wilson? If not, vote every time against such a man or men, be he governor or otherwise. We commend to Mr. Wilson a perusal of the address of that big-hearted "gentleman," ex-Governor Glenn of North Carolina, delivered at the dedication of a monument to their comrades resting in southern soil by the 9th N. J. in May, of 1905, at Newberne, N. C.

TONOPAH TO BE ON ROUTE KNOWN MIDLAND TRAIL

TRANSCONTINENTAL AUTO ROAD NOW BEING MAPPED WILL PASS THROUGH CITY

The "Midland Trail," third of the three transcontinental routes to be laid out this year by the A. A. A. Touring Information board, is now in process of preparation, with A. L. Westgard, the association's field representative, well on his way from New York to Los Angeles, says the Ely Expositor. The route for this trip is through Philadelphia, Reading, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City, over the "Golden Belt Road" of Kansas to Denver, and across the Rockies to Salt Lake City, thence through Ely, Tonopah and Goldfield to the California line, reaching Los Angeles via Independence and Mojave. It is expected the Rockies will be crossed before the end of October, so as to avoid cold weather in that region later in the year.

As in the case of the "Northwest Trail" and the "Overland Trail," great enthusiasm is being aroused along the entire line. The "Midland Trail" will be the first transcontinental route across the entire length of Pennsylvania, and through several important cities on the National road in Ohio and Indiana. It also brings St. Louis and Kansas City into the line of transcontinental route that will be traveled more and more as it is standardized and popularized. Kansas City has already been placed on the "Trail to Sunset," but St. Louis has never before been linked up in this way.

Already signs of road improvement are evident along this route, especially in Kansas, Colorado, Utah and Nevada. Many automobile clubs and good roads associations are in communication with A. A. A. headquarters, and express their willingness not only to co-operate with the pathfinding party, but also to help improve the route being selected for the "Midland Trail."

Mr. Westgard will have covered some 12,000 miles in the "Pathfinder 40" when he completes his third journey across the country. In connection with the "Northwest Trail" and "Overland Trail," he also ran south from Livingston to Gardiner, Mont., the entrance to Yellowstone park, and also to Glacier National park, and covered that part of the Pacific highway from Seattle to San Francisco, as well as making the loop from Cheyenne to Denver and return. This work has all been done since June 11, and is notable both for the long mileage and the fact that complete road notes were taken over every mile traveled.

MANHATTAN PAPER HAS BOOST FOR JUDGE CHAMBERS

issue, and shows the feelings of the voters of the northern camp in regard to the candidacy of Judge Chambers for justice of the peace of this township:

Judge J. K. Chambers, who for several years filled the office of justice of the peace for the Manhattan township, to the entire satisfaction of the miners and the people, is the republican nominee for that office at Tonopah and according to trustworthy reports from there appears practically certain of election. This is a matter which causes his friends here much gratification and their sympathies are with him in the contest. There is no doubt that if Manhattan voters were the ones to choose at Tonopah his majority would be large. The judge is admitted to be one of the ablest and best read lawyers in Nye county or Nevada. Mingled with his knowledge of the law is hard-headed common sense, which is an attribute not found in all attorneys and especially in all candidates for office.

COMMITTEE TO FILL VACANCY ON COUNTY TICKET

W. J. STOCK IS MENTIONED AS CANDIDATE FOR AUDITOR AND RECORDER

At a meeting of the democratic county central committee to be held tonight, a candidate to fill the vacancy on the county ticket, caused by the death of Puddy Grimes, auditor and recorder for re-election, will be named.

Several names have been discussed by local politicians, among the number being Charles A. Humphrey and W. J. Stock. Mr. Humphrey, it is understood, was called up at Manhattan and refused the nomination. This leaves the name of Mr. Stock and it is understood he will accept.

Mrs. W. D. Harden, 621 Washington st., Reno, Nev., says: "I suffered from kidney disease for a long time and used many remedies but nothing gave me relief. My back was very weak and painful, especially when I sat or laid down and the kidney secretions gave me great annoyance. I felt tired and weak and often suffered from dizzy spells. I was finally advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply. By the time I had finished three boxes, my trouble had disappeared and my kidneys have not bothered me since. My health is now good."
